The Keep Henrico Beautiful (KHB) program has received a statewide award for "Rigsby," a multimedia litter-awareness program targeting elementary-age students.

Keep Virginia Beautiful recently recognized the Henrico program at its annual award ceremony with a first-place award in the Litter Prevention-Government Agencies category. KHB is a division of the county's Department of Public Utilities.

"Rigsby" is a top-notch resource in the ongoing effort to raise public awareness about litter," said Director of Public Utilities Art Petrini. "Keep Henrico Beautiful has done an outstanding job to help develop the program and make it available to schools and litter-control agencies throughout the county and Virginia."

KHB created "Rigsby" to fill a need for a literature-based, litter-education resource designed specifically for students in grades K-3. The program includes an original children's book, an animated audio compact disc, an activity book and puppet show script. By using a raccoon—"Rigsby"—and other animal characters, the program teaches young people about the dangers litter poses to wildlife and the environment.

A team project, "Rigsby" combined the efforts of a number of people, including local artist Jenny H. Bingham, who wrote and illustrated the book; several Henrico County employees, who donated their time to the project; and KHB staff and volunteers.

"Rigsby," which has reached more than 10,000 people, has received statewide acclaim. The Virginia Office for Environmental Education currently is providing the program to all of the state's elementary schools. It is also used by daycare facilities, the Girl Scouts Council of the Commonwealth and litter-control program managers throughout Virginia.

Keep Virginia Beautiful has named Henrico County staff member Nancy Drumheller the winner of the statewide litter-prevention program's 2004 "Outstanding Individual" award.

Drumheller serves as executive coordinator of Keep Henrico Beautiful (KHB), the county's environmental-education and litter-prevention program. KHB is a division of the Department of Public Utilities.

"Nancy is visionary, resourceful and does her job with enthusiasm and dedication," said Director of Public Utilities Art Petrini. "She exemplifies excellence in public service, a hallmark of Henrico County employees."

As executive coordinator—a position she has held since 2000—Drumheller oversees Henrico's litter-control efforts and coordinates the county's involvement in regional and statewide programs. A one-person staff, she recruits and manages volunteers to help implement KHB programs.

Drumheller also works closely with local educators and environmental experts to develop education programs for young people. Recent projects include "Rigsby," a multi-media resource kit designed for elementary-age students to raise awareness of the dangers litter poses to wildlife; and "Litter: It's Costly, It's Criminal, It's Careless," a driver-education video that teaches teenagers about Virginia's litter laws.

Drumheller said she enjoys doing innovative projects and working with people who give back to Henrico.

"This award validates the hard work of Keep Henrico Beautiful, our committee and many volunteers," she said. "It's a great honor to be recognized for our programs and efforts."

The National Association of Counties (NACo) has appointed 12 Henrico County officials to the association's policy-making committees and governing bodies for 2004-05.

Members of Henrico's Board of Supervisors received the following appointments:

- ◆ Chairman and Tuckahoe District Supervisor Patricia S. O'Bannon, vice chair, Telecommunications and Technology steering committee; member, Large Urban County Caucus steering committee;
- ◆ Vice Chairman and Fairfield District Supervisor Frank J. Thornton, Human Services and Education steering committee;
- ◆ Brookland District Supervisor Richard W. Glover, Transportation steering committee;
- ◆ Three Chopt District Supervisor David A. Kaechele, Finance and Intergovernmental Affairs steering committee; and
- ◆ Varina District Supervisor James B. Donati, Jr., Community and Economic Development steering committee.

Several county officials were also chosen for service:

- ◆ County Manager Virgil R. Hazelett, P.E., Justice and Public Safety steering committee;
- ◆ Deputy County Manager George T. Drumwright, Jr., Health steering committee;

- ◆ Deputy County Manager Harvey L. Hinson, Environment, Energy and Land Use steering committee;
- ◆ Deputy County Manager Robert K. Pinkerton, Public Lands steering committee;
- ◆ Deputy County Manager Angela N. Harper, vice chair, Sustainability Leadership Team; National Association of County Planners representative on the NACo board of directors;
- ◆ Capital Area Training Consortium Director Rosalyn D. Key, Labor and Employment steering committee; and
- ◆ Legislative Liaison Linda G. Robinson, vice chair, County Fiscal Policy subcommittee of the Finance and Intergovernmental Affairs steering committee; member, Homeland Security Task Force.

The only nationwide organization representing county governments before Congress and the White House, NACo works to improve county government and increase public understanding of the role of counties. The association's 11 steering committees, each comprised of 60 to 100 county officials, form its policy-making arm. The committees and other governing bodies meet several times annually to examine issues key to local government and to make recommendations on legislative policies and goals.

Henrico residents and businesses can recycle broken and out-of-use cell phones, personal computers and other electronic items at a special collection event on Saturday, Nov. 6, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Henrico Government Center, 4301 E. Parham Road.

Held by the Department of Public Utilities' Solid Waste division in conjunction with Central Virginia Waste Management Authority (CVWMA), the electronics-recycling event is open to residents and businesses in all CVWMA jurisdictions. A variety of electronic equipment will be collected:

- ◆ Computers, monitors and computer accessories such as cables, wires, keyboards, mice and speakers;
- ◆ Printers, scanners, copiers and fax machines;
- ◆ Cell phones and telephones; and
- ◆ Televisions, VCRs, camcorders and stereos.

Most items will be accepted for free, although fees will be charged to recycle computer monitors, $7 each; televisions, $10 each; and console (wood-encased) televisions, $20 each. Participants are limited to recycling 10 items; anyone wishing to recycle more should contact CVWMA at 359-8413 at least 48 hours before the event.

In addition to consuming limited landfill space, electronic equipment may contain mercury, lead, chromium and other dangerous heavy metals. Proper disposal of these items prevents potential damage to the environment. Henrico County Health Department officials have announced that due to an unexpected shortage of flu vaccine, all county flu clinics are suspended until the vaccine becomes available.

Henrico's flu clinics were scheduled to begin next week; however, the Chiron Corp.'s announcement Tuesday that it will be unable to provide flu vaccine forced county officials to suspend the clinics. Health officials are waiting for information regarding when or if additional vaccine may become available.

Health officials advise that the existing flu vaccine supply will be limited to high-risk individuals, including children ages 6 to 23 months; out-of-home caregivers and household contacts of children less than 6 months; adults 65 or older; children and adults with chronic medical conditions; and pregnant women.
